

ABSTRACT

The invention provides an automated financial information management and processing system. The invention allows for the consolidation of commercial lending, commercial real estate lending, personal financial underwriting, risk assessment and decisioning into a single platform. The invention allows for the integration personal and corporate financial information for lending decisioning.